Job Description:

Wake Forest is seeking an ACS-trained surgeon to join the faculty in the Department of General Surgery and help develop an ACS service at High Point Medical Center in the Atrium Health Wake Forest Baptist System. While primary responsibility will be at High Point, time will be spent at the main campus Level 1 center in Winston-Salem as well. The work at High Point Medical Center will focus on building an EGS service with other current providers and will comprise the majority of effort. Along with the ACS service implementation, there will be an opportunity to work with ACS and MGS (Mastery in General Surgery) fellows and as well as general surgery residents as they rotate at this center. The current EGS case load there is 3-400 cases per year. While the primary role of this surgeon would be at High Point, they would also rotate at Wake Forest Baptist Hospital and work with the entire section in PI efforts and educational activities.
